

Section 6.7 Attribute declarations

The identifier is said to be the designator of the attribute. An attribute may be associated with an entity declaration, an architecture, a configuration, a procedure, a function, a package, a type, a subtype, a constant, a signal, a variable, an expression, a component, a label, a literal, a unit, a group, or a file.